

The Bandit

March 5, 1997 ♦ Issue XIX

>>>FYI<<<

On March 8th, Pacific Woods Division of Special Olympics will hold a can and bottle drive in both Seaside and Astoria. Bring your cans and bottles (returnable) to Hauke's Sentry Market, 3000 Leif Erickson Drive or Seaside Thriftway, 909 So. Holladay and you will receive a raffle ticket to win a grocery sack filled with Proctor & Gamble Products. P & G match funds with Special Olympics. The money for this fundraiser stays in our area (Clatsop County) to help athletes. Besides collecting money for the bottles and cans, athletes are able to help sort and count the returnables. This is a very positive event for them, as they have a part in helping that day and will further benefit in their sports programs as well. So, if you need to clean out that garage or storage shed and get rid of some cans and bottles, please mark down March 8th and stop by: Hauke's Sentry or Seaside Thriftway.

One of the missions of the Community Information Center is to provide Internet Access to residents who do not otherwise have an opportunity to connect to the Internet. This includes E-mail accounts--especially for job searching, educational resource gathering and civic networking. There is no charge for this service. It does take a day or two for us to set up the account on our server. Please check out our website at:

Grants for all who apply

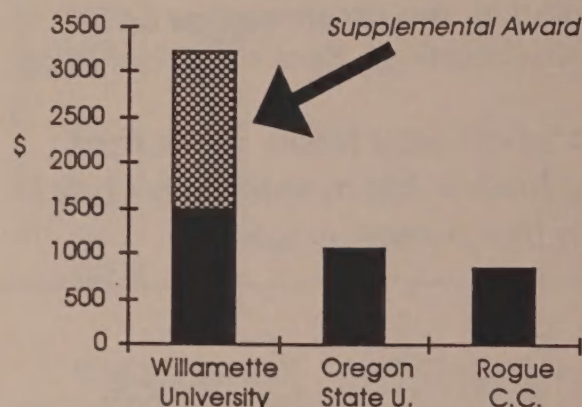

The Private Supplemental

In addition to the basic need grant, private school students also receive a Supplementary Award.

These supplemental grants cost the state approximately $3 million, while the basic need grant remains underfunded.

CCOSAC's position is that the basic need grant should be the first funding priority. All eligible students should first receive the basic need grant before the private supplemental grants are funded.

Private school students get 2 grants & 3X as much money

The average amount of basic need grants is already weighted according to cost. Supplemental grants could be used for the basic program; fewer students would be denied

Education out of reach

Even if a low income student receives a Need Grant, they almost always must work and take out loans in order to afford college. Community college tuition has risen 78% between 1990 & 97; OSSHE tuition is 80% and private is 54% more.

Without $6.1 million more for the Need Grant,, many students will be denied access to higher education.

The Oregon Need Grant

Not Everyone Gets Help

The Oregon Need Grant is the state's primary tool to help low income Oregonians afford a postsecondary education.

Still, thousands of eligible students never receive a dime because the need grant isn't fully funded.

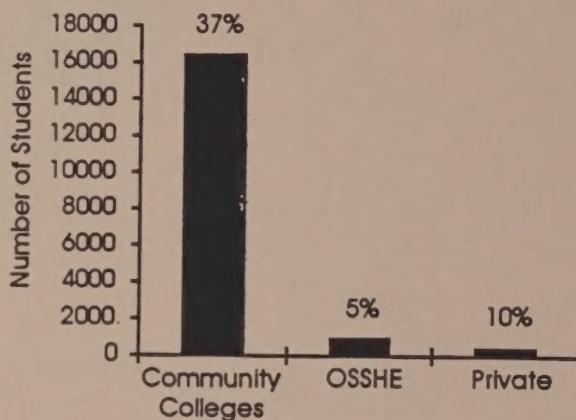

Especially CC Students!

Attending a community college allows students more flexibility. Admission deadlines don't require as much planning ahead as those for OSSHE or private school students, who may need to apply months in advance. Plus, community college students are more likely to start their academic career in the winter or spring terms.

By the time many community college students apply for financial aid, funding has already run out. 37% of eligible community college students receive no grant because the program is not funded year round.

$6.1 million is needed to fully fund the Need Grant

Thousands of eligible students got nothing

37% of eligible community college students received no grant, while only 5% of OSSHE and 10% of private school applicants went without

What is an average grant?

Community college and OSSHE students receive 11% of what it costs for tuition, room and board, $842 and $1,050 respectively. Private school students receive 11% of the average cost of education at an OSSHE institution, $1,500. The state spends $27 million on basic need grants - $6.1 million short of what it costs to give grants to every eligible student that applies.
